“ Grandma had an unwavering faith in God. This past year as I struggled through Stage IV multi-tumor breast cancer, Grandma would call me frequently to tell me she and the ladies were praying for my full recovery, which I continue to be very appreciative. Two weeks ago, days before I was to get test results I was at work when she left me a voicemail. It says, "Jo Ann, honey, This is Grandma GG. I just know everything is going to be okay." I was too scared at the time to accept her complete faith, so I didn't know what to say to her and didn't call her back. I very much regret not calling her back. Meanwhile, I got test results and am cancer-free. Now, when I listen to her voicemail, I can't help but think the tables have turned, and her message is to tell me that SHE will be okay.

“ For the Twins' 5th birthday, I threw them a Fear Factor 5 birthday party. Grandma traveled to my house on the West side of the state to help prepare. We sat down for a planning meeting, and if you knew grandma, you can imagine the look on her face and her widening eyes as I explained that we needed to make cow's eyeballs (turkey meatballs with sour cream and olives), slimy snakes (gummy worms with oil) and kitty litter cake that the kids would have to eat. Always game, she never said a word; instead, she stood in the kitchen for hours as she helped labor over the gross food. She truly enjoyed watching the kids struggle over eating it.

“ Oh how I am going to miss Margaret but I hope that when I am gone they will be saying all the things that are being said about this wonderful lady! What an amazing life she lived and lived it fully until the day the Good Lord called her away! I will miss her at all the school functions and miss listening to her perspective on life. I do have comfort in knowing exactly where she is spending the rest of eternity and hope to see her again someday!

“ Lots of fun times with Margaret over the 55 years I've known her. We met through church and the home makers club when I first moved here. Then Grange. I loved to hear about the days when she grew up along with Harveys aunts and uncles on the Schuh and Bohnet sides out in the Ruff area. She was wonderful to work on things with, fun and oh so capable. I will miss her!
