“ When I was a little girl, I thought my Papa was the strongest man in the world! He would curl his arm and flex his biceps, my sister and I would hang off his curled arm and he would twirl us around and around to our glee!

I appreciated his work ethics, his passion for making a better life for himself & his family and his desire that we achieve and surpass his goals. After all we were in America where 'dreams' come true with hard work, confidence and tenacity, he believed anyone could make a great life for themselves, he proved it! I will miss you Poppy, especially when you called me 'Sweetpie' ❤️
